NWCG CURRICULUM MANAGEMENT ISSUE PAPER #32 REVISION OF THE TEN STANDARD FIREFIGHTING ORDERS

BACKGROUND

The original Ten Standard Firefighting Orders were developed in 1957 by a task force commissioned by the Forest Service. The Standard Orders were organized in a deliberate and sequential way to be implemented systematically and applied to all fire situations. The reorganization of the Standard Orders was undertaken in the late 1980s to form an acronym (Fire Orders), thus changing the original sequence and, consequently, the intent of the orders as a program and logical hazard control system.

RECOMMENDATION

The Training Working Team, Incident Operations Standards Working Team and Safety and Health Working Team concur with the following recommendation of the NWCG, S-130 Fire Fighter Training, subject matter expert revision group. Restore the order of the original Ten Standard Firefighting Orders with minor wording changes (see attached). The S-130 Fire Fighter Training course, revision introduces the Fire Orders in their original format. It is currently in the alpha test phase.

ACTION REQUIRED

Initial actions required include the following:

- Revise S-130 to restore the Fire Orders to their original order.
- Revise PMS 410-1, Fireline Handbook.
- Revise PMS 461, Incident Response Pocket Guide.
- Update recurrent training, e.g. S-132, Standards for Survival.
- Request PMS Working Team to help identify other documents that contain the Ten Standard Orders requiring revision.
- Training Working Team will revise any listings of the Standard Orders to match identified orders during scheduled course revisions.
